

Brought electrical appliances usage directions

1. In accordance with Accommodation Rules and with the Accommodation Contract, the Resident is obligated to announce all the electrical appliances brought onto the premises of halls of residence to the accommodation provider in advance (henceforth “the brought electrical appliance announcer”)
2. The Resident’s obligation to announce all the brought electrical appliances within the intention of the previous paragraph refers also to PC and additional devices; an automatically generated payment for these PCs does not substitute the enrolment.
3. The brought electrical appliance announcer is liable for the fact that the electrical appliance meets legal and other directives including valid technical standards, in particular safety and fire standards, further, the announcer is liable for the proper operational and technical state of the electrical appliance as well as for using it in accordance with these standards.
4. The brought electrical appliance announcer is liable for any possible damage caused by the brought electrical appliance.
5. The maximal input of all the electrical appliances turned on at the same time in a room is 2000W.
6. In the University Halls of Residence rooms, it is forbidden to connect up and to use brought domestic appliances such as e.g. grills, deep fryers, coffee machines, electric kettles, microwave ovens, toasters, electric heaters and the like with the following exceptions (only if the condition of the paragraph 5 is met.):
  - a. Electric kettles /only 1 piece in a room/ can be used on condition that they will be disconnected from power supply when not in use.
  - b. Microwave oven /only 1 piece in a room/ can be used only in kitchenettes of Lomená and Vinařská Halls of Residence

Ing. Zdeněk Čížek
Director of Accommodation and
Catering Services at Masaryk University

Drawn up by: Ing. František Dočekal
In Brno 1st September 2014